Cook at Village Restaurant
Shoots Self in Temple at Leon H. Dennison, 58, of Port Ewen died Saturday evening at the Kingston Hospital at 8 o'clock, two hours after he had shot himself in the temple with a revolver outside his home.

Mr. Dennison who was employed as a cook at Spinnys Restaurant, had been in ill health and apparently had made plans for the act some time prior to the shooting.

Sheriff Abram F. Molyneux was notified of the shooting and Deputy Sheriff Clayton Vredenburg and State Trooper John Metzger of the B. C. I. went to Port Ewen to investigate the shooting. When found by Carl Proper, who lives next to the Dennison place, Dennison was in critical condition. The body was discovered by Mr. Proper about 6 o'clock when he went to back his car from the garage. The body of the injured man was found along the house just around the corner from the kitchen door. Night Jailor Lyman Ellsworth and Deputy Sheriff Donald Tinnie of Port Ewen also assisted in the investigation.

After Dennison was taken to the Kingston Hospital his father gave the officers permission to continue the investigation in the house and in the injured man's room they found a note in which it was stated that because of illness he planned to make away with himself. The note left no doubt but that the act was one of suicide. Coroner Michael Galletta of Glasco gave suicide as his verdict. When the injured man was found Dr. George W. Joss of Port Ewen was summoned.

Dennison lived with his father a short distance from Spinnys. He returned to his home about 6 o'clock and a few moments later left the kitchen. Apparently he went to the side of the house where he turned the revolver on himself. The wound was in the head above the ear and the bullet passed through the head and emerged on the opposite side.

Surviving is his father, Thomas P. Dennison, with whom he lived, one brother, the Rev. Benjamin W. Dennison of Groton, N. Y. Funeral services will be held from the late home at 2 o'clock Tuesday at 2 o'clock. Burial in Port Ewen cemetery.

Mrs. Harvey Simpson to File Claim
Against City as Result of Blast

Mrs. Harvey Simpson of 234 Clifton avenue points to the wall where one of the large rocks landed after being hurled by an alleged blast Thursday morning on a WPA project. The large stone came through the window with such force that it traveled across the room and hit the wall, breaking the plaster. Earlier in the day Mrs. Simpson stood in this exact spot watching blasting operations on Lincoln street.

The east side of the Simpson home is on Lincoln street, and received rough treatment from the blast that allegedly went wild. The two windows shown in the picture were smashed, carrying the glass to the dining room and damaging the rug and furniture. Below, the house siding repair work is not completed.

Nazis Hail Voting
At Memel; Status
Depends on Berlin

Directory Decrees End of Lithuanian Police Powers
in Former German Territory; Authorities Wait

Results Unknown
Final Tabulation Will Be Made Known Some Time
This Week

Memel, Lithuania, Dec. 12 (AP)—The pro-Nazi Memel directory, flushed with what it termed a smashing victory in parliamentary elections yesterday, decreed the end of Lithuanian police powers today in this former German territory.

The decree asserted that only police of autonomous Memel would be permitted to control security of the territory lying at Lithuania's southwest corner adjoining Germany.

Political observers declared final decision as to any change in the territorial status of Memel, object of German ambitions to expand along the Baltic, would be made in Berlin, not Memel.

The Lithuanian government, which holds a somewhat nominal sovereignty over Memel awaited the return from Berlin of the German minister. It was expected he would bring precise German proposals.

Following a state of emergency decree "for protection of the state," more than 100 students were said by private sources to have been arrested in Kaunas, the Lithuanian capital. Newspapers reported many students had been released, but that they were planning a strike demonstration.

Sounds Rallying Cry
Memel's "horse doctor" Frederick Ernest Neumann, 50-year-old veterinarian, sounded a rallying cry that "the time is ripe for our decision in Memel."

He was backed by yesterday's vote which showed over 95 per cent of Memel's eligible voters—90 per cent of the region's 150,000 inhabitants are of German origin—had participated in the election.

Final results will be known later this week, but 26 of the 29 Landtag (Parliament) seats were expected to fall to the Nazis.

That would be a net gain of two seats for the Germans and political observers said the new members would be more ardently Nazi than the old legislature.

Neumann declared "we have begged for our rights for 16 years and we shall beg no more."

Those words were taken as foreshadowing a new demand for the Reich when Memel's Landtag meets late in January.

Others asserted that positive action for the annexation or complete domination of Memel by Germany would come when Hitler summons his Reichstag to meet January 30.

That idea was supported by Neumann's enigmatic words "We don't know what our future will be, but the fate of Memel will not be decided here."

Whatever action is taken, none look for the use of force but anticipate the extension of German authority under the guise of demands for "the right of self determination."

The only casualty of Sunday election disorders was an American, Robert Sellmer, free lance newspaperman of Milwaukee, Wis., who told authorities he was beaten by three uniformed guards for not replying to the latter salute as he was crossing a Memel street.

The incident was reported to the United States minister in Kaunas.

The first result of Sunday's election, carried out with typical Nazi vigor and color, was the flight of hundreds of Memel's 5,000 to 6,000 Jews into the Lithuanian interior.

Lithuania herself was shaken by Sunday's election and President Antanas Smetona promptly declared a state of emergency.

German news agency dispatches to Berlin said more than 100 persons had been arrested when the emergency was decreed.

Foreign aid to halt German acquisition of Memel was discounted in advance by the government which watched Germany's quick absorption of Austria and Czechoslovakia.

'Italy Needs Territory'
Thus Speaks Duce's Official Editor About French
Somaliland, Terminus of Railway From Addis Ababa to the Red Sea

Rome, Dec. 12 (AP)—Italy's need of French Somaliland for the development of Ethiopia was declared today by Virginio Gayda, Fascist editor who often expresses Premier Mussolini's views.

Gayda, who previously had attacked Italy's alleged grievances against France in Tunisia and her desire for lower tolls and a share of the Suez canal, charged the French with hindering Italian Colonial interests through possession of Djibouti.

That port of French Somaliland is the terminus of the railway linking Addis Ababa, capital of Ethiopia, with the Red Sea.

Gayda's declaration, in his Giornale D'Italia, coincided with other Italian press charges that France was arming Tunisia, her North African protectorate, for military use against Italy.

French Somaliland, Gayda wrote, "continues to nullify the policy of friendship and collaboration contemplated in the defunct Italo-French accords of 1935 and continues to be a chronic provocation which can no longer last or be tolerated."

Other Italian papers cited a Paris report that General Morin, who helped build the Maginot line of fortifications facing Germany, is now in Tunisia as confirming that France "intends to transform Tunisia into a sharp war instrument against Italy."

Otherwise the Italian press found little new in the Tunisian situation, limiting itself chiefly to quoting French and British newspaper reaction to Italy's thus far vaguely defined claims.

Landon Is Chief United States
Representative in Proposal
Designed to Define Action
Against Aggression

Favorable Omen
Delegates See Favorable Sign for Peace Measures in Speech by Jose Cantilo

Lima, Peru, Dec. 12 (AP)—The Pan-American conference peace committee, with Alf M. Landon as chief United States representative, took up today a sweeping project for safeguarding the security of the Americas.

The project was advanced by Venezuela. It defines what could be aggression from a non-American nation and calls for immediate consultation and common action by the Americas in the event of attack.

Some of the delegates considered the project too advanced in concept for conference approval in its present form, but from the committee discussion may emerge a draft acceptable to all.

The committee was easily the most important of the various groups swinging into action today, after the ceremonies of convening the Congress Friday and Saturday.

Some delegates saw a favorable omen for peace legislation in the address by Jose Maria Cantilo, foreign minister of Argentina, who said Saturday that the American nations were ready to maintain a common front against any danger which might menace the independence and sovereignty of any of them.

In view of the previous Argentine attitude against any step drawing away from European ties, the feeling prevailed that Cantilo took a step further than expected.

Instructs Delegation
Deciding to return home today, Cantilo instructed his delegation to proceed upon the outlines of his speech but no further.

Much criticism of the Venezuela aggression project was that it did not consider the possibility of invasion of the hemisphere by political activities of the non-American nations, which both Cantilo and Secretary Hull, chief of the United States delegation, mentioned in their Saturday speeches.

The United States delegation would like to see something included on this.

The Venezuelan plan, "without exaggerating future dangers" and "without sowing suspicions," declares that "for America the moment has arrived to think and work continually to unify its action and its methods of defense in the face of emergencies that might arise."

Definition of Aggression
The definition of aggression includes: "Force to settle differences; rather than use of the courts; declaration of war on one of the signatories; invasion by armed forces; attack by land, air or sea; a naval blockade; support to armed bands invading one of the Americas."

The Argentine and Mexican delegates are working on a resolution calling for the end of the Spanish civil war and offering Pan-American mediation.

Secretary Hull, although he announced a long list of United States representatives to serve on the seven executive committees, carefully kept himself from any of them.

He continues to function as chairman of the delegation and, of the highest importance, to consult with other delegation chairmen in furthering his hope for a common viewpoint.

Offers to Raise Funds
The Rev. John P. O'Hara, president of Notre Dame University, revealed that Landon had offered to raise from private sources a fund for exchange of college professors between the United States and Latin America in an effort to better friendly relations.

"There must not be a shadow of doubt anywhere as to the determination of the American nations not to permit invasion of this hemisphere by the forces of any power or any possible combination of powers," Hull declared Saturday night.

Hartford Industrialist Identifies Firms Controlling More
Than 96.6 Per Cent of Container Business

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—The justice department presented evidence today that two companies exercised indirect control of more than 96.6 per cent of the nation's glass container production.

These companies were identified by F. C. Smith, president of the Hartford-Empire Company, of Hartford, Conn., as being his concern and the Owens-Illinois Glass Company.

Smith told the federal monopoly committee that these two firms hold patents on essential machines for feeding liquid glass into blowers. The processes employed by the machines are the "most economical" known, he testified.

No Outside License
At the same time Hugh Cox, justice department attorney, conducting the hearing, brought out that the Owens-Illinois company had not licensed any outside concern to use its process since 1914, so that anyone desiring now to go into the glass industry would have to apply for a patent license to Hartford-Empire, or use a "streamlined" method, suitable only for the production of limited articles.

"If it's true," Cox asked, "that as far as those machines are concerned, your company has virtually a monopoly on them?"

Smith agreed that "our company does have a monopoly, which is, of course, the monopoly given us by the patents."

Introduces "Memorandum"
Subsequently Cox introduced a "memorandum on policy" of the Hartford Company, which stated that one of the main purposes in securing patents was "to block the developments of machines which might be constructed by others for the same purpose as our machines."

The committee began its glass container inquiry after having studied last week the use of patents by the automobile industry. In that industry testimony showed a "free use" policy for patents.

Also before the committee was information that the glass container industry has increased production steadily while cutting its employment rolls.

Starting an investigation into the use of patents by the industry, the committee was given a statement by the justice department saying production increased from 1,100,000,000 containers in 1939 almost 6,000,000,000 in 1935.

Production Value
The production was valued at $21,500,000 and $120,000,000 in respective years. Production for 1937 was estimated at 7,750,000,000 containers valued at $160,000,000.

In 1939, the statement said, 28,370 persons were employed in the industry, while in 1935 there were only 24,044 employed.

"At the turn of the century," the report continued, "the average production per man was about 40,000 containers per year. By 1935, this figure had increased to 245,000."

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) committee chairman, told reporters that testimony would be developed to show whether restrictions on the use of patents had permitted the few companies to dominate the glass container industry.

Court Says Negro
Students of Law
Deserve Equality

Missouri Must Admit Negro,
Justices Rule; No Review of
P. & O. Case; Postpones
Child Labor Question

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—The Supreme Court ruled today that a state must give "equality" in educational privileges to white and negro law students.

It gave this opinion in holding that the University of Missouri Law School must admit Lloyd L. Gaines, St. Louis negro, as a student.

Chief Justice Hughes delivered the majority opinion that held Missouri, in compelling negro law students to attend school outside the state, had violated the "equal rights" provision of the constitution.

"The question here," Chief Justice Hughes said, "is not of a duty of the state to supply legal training, or of the quality of the training which it does supply, but of its duty when it provides such training to furnish it to the residents of the state upon the basis of an equality of right."

Privilege Denied
"By the operation of the laws of Missouri a privilege has been created for white law students which is denied to negroes by reason of their race."

"The white resident is afforded legal education within the state; the negro resident having the same qualifications is refused it there and must go outside the state to obtain it."

"That is a denial of the quality of legal right to the enjoyment of the privilege which the state has set up, and the provision for the payment of tuition fees in another state does not remove the discrimination."

Other Actions
Among other actions, the court refused to review a National Labor Relations Board decision that the Peninsular and Occidental Steamship Company should reinstate 145 seamen dismissed from two ships. This, in effect, was a defeat for the labor board. While the high tribunal did not pass on the merits of the controversy it left in effect a decision against the board by the Fifth Federal Circuit Court.

The circuit court held that the men had engaged in a sit-down strike, had taken possession of the ships and that this was "at least prima facie evidence that the crews were guilty of mutiny."

"It would be gross negligence," the circuit court added, "for a vessel to put to sea with that kind of crew."

It was contended by the labor board, however, that the men should be returned to work and given back pay because their discharge was due to their joining and assisting the National Maritime Union, a CIO affiliate.

Postpones Labor Matter
The court postponed at least until next Monday a decision on whether a state which once rejects a proposed constitutional amendment to abolish child labor can later ratify it.

Thomas J. Mooney's long fight for freedom encountered defeat again in the supreme court.

The tribunal refused a petition for a writ of habeas corpus, designed to free the California convict from San Quentin penitentiary where he is serving a life sentence for complicity in the 1916 Preparedness Day bombing in San Francisco.

Doctors Amputate
Wirth's Right Leg

Operation Is Performed Upon
Bronxville Hunter Saturday at Local Hospital

LeRoy Wirth of Bronxville, who was accidentally shot by his hunting companion, Rene Fisher, at Lake Hill last week, suffered the amputation of his right leg above the knee on Saturday at the Kingston Hospital.

The operation was performed by Dr. Fred Snyder, who has been taking care of the injured man since his removal to the Kingston Hospital, following treatment by Dr. George W. Bassow of Woodstock at the scene of the shooting.

Shattered by the high power charge from the rifle of a companion every effort was made to save the member but the bone injury was so severe that on Saturday it was necessary to amputate. Wirth, engaged in the garage business with his brother, already has but one arm.

Treated at the scene by Dr. Bassow, the injured man was desperately ill when brought to the hospital because of loss of blood.

Several transfusions were given and every effort was made to save the leg but on Saturday it was deemed necessary to amputate. His condition this morning was reported as fairly good.

Washington Ave. Man Suffers
Serious Burns While Working on Gasoline Pump

James DeWitt of 161 Washington avenue, was badly burned about the hands, face and neck, about 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Cities Service gas station at North Front street and Washington avenue. He was removed to the Kingston Hospital where he is under the care of Dr. Douw S. Meyers.

DeWitt was a member of the repair crew, including Raymond Wells of 86 Pine street and Archie Robinson of 255 Smith avenue, working one of the gas pumps at the station when a spark from the electric wiring on the pump ignited the gas. DeWitt was the only one of the trio injured.

An alarm of fire was turned in from Box 231, but when the fire department reached the station it was found that Preston DuBois, in charge of the gas station, with the aid of other station assistants had extinguished the fire.

Roosevelt to Make Family
Home Government Heritage

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—President Roosevelt is going to break another precedent to insure the preservation of his papers for posterity.

The chief executive disclosed Saturday that his family home at Hyde Park, N. Y., would become the property of the government upon his death. In the meantime, a special repository for his correspondence, books, papers and paintings will be constructed on the grounds and turned over to the government.

Other presidents have taken their papers back to their homes when they left the White House, making it difficult for historians to locate them.

In announcing his intention to newsmen, Mr. Roosevelt said the building to house the collection would be built partly by private subscription. He said he would contribute to the project all fund-raising taxes—that he has received from the sale of material to newspapers, magazines and book publishers. A similar contribution would be made, the president said, by Justice Samuel I. Rosenman of the New York Supreme Court, who collaborated with him in preparing his papers for publication.

Definite Recovery Signs

London, Dec. 12 (AP)—Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, asserted today that there were definite signs of world economic recovery. In a speech to the National Union of Manufacturers Sir John said: "In America there is an industrial quickening which is bound to have repercussions on world trade. 'Figures for our own industrial activity, when due allowance is made for the time lag, also show signs that the United Kingdom is beginning to benefit by the upward movement.'"

Market Seen in Waiting Position

Stocks firmed a bit Saturday, with volume at 405,610 shares and closed a dull week with gains for the day and, as far as the industrial averages are concerned, a small gain for the week. The industrial issues were up in the final session 0.32 point, to 148.31; rails gained 0.19 point, to 29.10 and utilities were ahead for the day 0.13 point, to 21.34. As a whole the market is seen to be in a waiting position, although there has been a slow decline since early in November, which has wiped out perhaps a sixth of the gains made in the period from April 1 to November 12. Just now selling to establish tax losses is a feature, but there seems to be a rather general idea that there is a considerable amount of money in the hands of buyers who are waiting for a favorable opportunity to get into the market and that unless soon there is a marked tendency toward lower prices they will be making themselves felt on the buying side.

The usual year-end slackening of business, for purposes of inventory and other reasons, is approaching and from now on until the first of the year predictions for the immediate future at least are apt to be found at considerable variance. One commentator says:

"A pronounced contra-seasonal gain in carloadings reported last week indicates strength in the underlying trend. The automobile industry has just come swiftly into full seasonal production and has passed the output record of this time a year ago, but obviously that is not enough of itself to prove the continuation of general industrial progress. It is reinforced by further increase in the volume of building construction under way and under contract, this still resulting from the outpouring of public funds. The past week has witnessed a little railroad ordering of equipment and track materials; the steel industry counts on more of it, but particularly on a sustained miscellaneous demand to enable the mills to close the year at a production level two to three times what it was when 1937 ended. Electric power consumption is widening its margin of gain over the downhill record of last December. But, the market for cotton goods has become inert and some curtailment of mill output will probably ensue if the present rising volume of general retail distribution and the passing of the inventory period do not soon revive it in that line. On the whole a confident prediction of business improvement throughout, say, the first half of 1939, needs other bases to rest upon than visible trade conditions today."

With the net operating income of the railroads for November now estimated to have been more than $10,000,000 better than for November last year, when net was $22,440,920, final quarter earnings are now being revised upward. However, for Class I roads as a whole, it is expected that final figures for the present year will show a loss of close to $135,000,000. This would be the poorest showing for years, with the exception of 1932, when deficit after taxes and charges totaled $139,263,821.

Purchases of U. S. savings bonds for the first 11 months of this year total $645,179,100, which is more than for all of last year.

The SEC has authorized Utilities Power and Light, subject to court approval, to use at least $9,000,000 cash of its Canadian subsidiary, in purchasing U. P. & L. debentures at 70.

New orders for lumber in the week ended December 3 were the heaviest since July and 50 per cent above the 1937 period.

With a huge cotton surplus, cotton growers have voted for the AAA cotton plan on that crop, but tobacco and rice farmers turned down the proposition.

The Plymouth local of the UAW, in a resolution demands wage increases of 10 to 20 cents an hour for all employees. The minimum plant wage rate, generally speaking, is around 75 cents an hour at this time, with the average considerably higher.

Electric Auto-Lite declared 50 cents on common stock, bringing total payments for the year to $1 as against $2.60 last year. Columbia Oil & Gasoline ordered 15 cents on common, in addition to dividends on preferred. National Acme Co. announced a common stock dividend of 25 cents; last payment was 50 cents in December 1937.

Traffic Lights Do 24 Hour Duty in Gotham

New York, Dec. 12 (AP)—Red and green traffic lights burn 24 hours a day in New York city streets now.

Operation of the stop-and-go signals on an around the clock basis was ordered Saturday by Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine. The order followed a survey that disclosed many major auto accidents occurred between 3 a. m. and 7 a. m., when the lights normally were not in use.

Police reported only one pedestrian was injured during this four-hour period yesterday, first day the lights were left on. During the similar period a week ago, they said, 10 persons were hurt in six accidents.

They were among the 97 defendants indicted here last month by a special grand jury which spent 16 weeks investigating charges that a monopoly existed in the national dairy industry.

Death Rate Drops

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 12 (AP)—New York state's monthly death rate is running near the all-time low mark. Dr. J. V. De Porte, director of the division of vital statistics, state health department, reported today a rate of 10.4 per 1,000 population for October, or the lowest, with one exception, ever reported. Directors Seek Resignation of McKesson Head

New York, Dec. 12 (AP)—The resignation of F. Donald Coster, president of McKesson and Robbins, Inc., was requested today by the board of directors as Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., pressed his inquiry into the financial affairs of the 105-year-old drug concern.

The board also voted to request the resignation of George E. Dietrich, assistant treasurer and assistant vice-president of the company, who had charge of the crude drugs department under Coster's supervision.

Evidence developed at a hearing in Bennett's office Saturday indicated that alleged irregularities in this department resulted in overestimating the company's assets by approximately $18,000,000.

Coincidentally with the announcement of the board's action, Bennett said four new brokerage accounts in the names of Coster or his wife, Carol E. Coster, have been discovered. On Saturday Bennett procured a court order tying up cash and securities, worth approximately $100,000 in a brokerage account of Mrs. Coster's.

The McKesson and Robbins board decided that, if Coster and Dietrich have not resigned by noon tomorrow, they would call a special meeting of the board next Monday for the purpose of removing both men.

Coster is 54, a native of Washington, D. C., and holds the degrees of doctor of medicine and doctor of philosophy from Heidelberg University. He became president of the company in 1926.

Ambrose V. McCall, assistant attorney general in charge of the inquiry, and Max Furman, another assistant and senior stockholder, were available yet 43 to the nature of size of the newly found accounts.

The company filed a petition for reorganization under the federal Chandler Act last Thursday.

Margoles Names Officials of Firm

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 12 (AP)—Peter Margoles of New Haven, a stockholder of McKesson and Robbins, Inc., named two officials of the big wholesale drug firm and the wife of one of them defendants today in a suit for $100,000 damages, claiming the company "falsely and fraudulently" issued financial statements of purported assets.

The suit is returnable in the January term of the Fairfield County Superior Court, meeting at Bridgeport.

Deputy Sheriff John J. Malcy served writs of attachment on property to the value of $10,000 against F. Donald Coster, president of the company, his wife, Carol E. Coster, and the firm's assistant treasurer, George E. Dietrich, all residents of Fairfield.

The company is undergoing an investigation by five federal, New York state and New York city agencies.

Margoles said in his petition he owned 350 shares of McKesson & Robbins common stock.

Priest Says 'Only Pope Speaks for the Church'

Detroit, Dec. 12 (AP)—Father Charles E. Coughlin issued a brief statement today in response to a statement yesterday by George Cardinal Mundelein in Chicago. He said that "only the Pope speaks for the Catholic Church."

The statement said: "Father Coughlin is in agreement with the Cardinal when he says that Father Coughlin does not speak for the Catholic Church. No priest speaks for the whole church; no bishop speaks for the whole church, and no cardinal speaks for the whole church. Only the Pope speaks for the church."

Deer Is Met At Wrong Time

Deputy Sheriff Wesley O'Brien of Glenford "got his deer" Saturday night, but it didn't do him any good. On the contrary he was out of pocket.

"Wes" was driving up from New York when near Arden Farms a fine buck and a doe started across the road ahead of him. The buck made it all right, but the doe, after getting part way across the road stopped, and, apparently blinded by the headlights of the approaching car, backed up a few steps. The car struck the animal and threw it high into the air, breaking its back.

The deer was turned over to the State Police. The car was damaged some in front as a result of the collision.

Another deer story is told by William T. Leonard of the Whelan Store force, who went into the deer woods to try his luck yesterday. "Bill" ploughed around through the woods all day, without seeing any sign of a deer and finally decided to call it a day. He dismounted his rifle and started to drive home, but had driven but a short distance when a fine buck shot across the road in front of his car and in less time than it takes to tell it disappeared in the woods on the other side of the road.

Suggests Arbitration

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—Wendell Wilkie, president of Commonwealth and Southern Corporation, offered today to submit to company stockholders his proposal that a fair purchase price for the Tennessee Valley Authority be fixed by arbitration.

The companies were allowed 10 days to ask for a Supreme Court review and stay.

Mundelein Says Coughlin Does Not Speak for Church

Chicago, Dec. 12 (AP)—George Cardinal Mundelein made it clear today that the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin "has the right to express his personal views on current events, but he is not authorized to speak for the Catholic Church."

In a coast to coast (NBC) broadcast yesterday Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, vicar general of the Chicago archdiocese, read a statement in behalf of the cardinal.

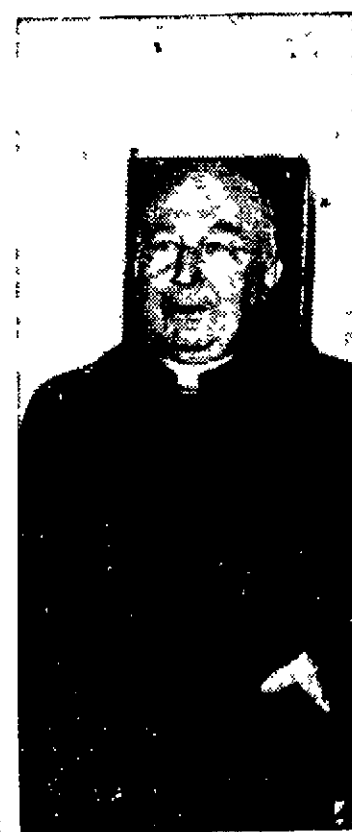

At about the same time, Frank J. Hogan, Catholic president of the American Bar Association, warned members of his faith in a radio address from Washington, to oppose all forms of racial and religious intolerance. He said Pope Pius had denounced anti-Semitism as incompatible with Christianity.

The widely known Washington attorney spoke on the special radio net-work used by Father Coughlin immediately after a broadcast by the Detroit priest who urged Jews and Gentiles "to stand shoulder to shoulder against Nazism, against Communism, from which it spangs, and against Godlessness."

Father Coughlin spoke on an independent network.

Bishop Sheil was on the air only two minutes. He said "His Eminence George Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago, having been impudently by news commentators and correspondents from every section of the country in reference to broadcasts of Father Coughlin of Detroit, makes the following statement."

"As an American citizen, Father Coughlin has the right to express his personal views on current events, but he is not authorized to speak for the Catholic Church nor does he represent the doctrine or sentiments of the church."

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

For several years the students in the civic classes in the Kingston High School have been receiving first hand information on the various phases of city government from the men in charge of the various city departments. After taking up the course of instruction they have written essays on the various phases of city government.

By this means the young people have obtained a vivid idea as to just what constitutes city government. The series of studies are climaxed each year by a general election among the members of the classes who elect a student mayor and members of his cabinet.

This year a similar plan was carried out and inaugural ceremonies will be held this evening in the council chambers of the city hall, and on Tuesday the student mayor and his fellow officials will take over the actual government of the city for the day. It has been found that by giving the students actual instruction by department heads that they obtain a much better idea of just what constitutes city government and when they reach voting age they will be in a much better condition to know what it is all about.

City officials have cooperated willingly with the instructors in the civic classes in the high school, and each year finds more interest displayed by the students.

That they take their duties and responsibilities seriously is displayed each year when Student Government Day is observed in Kingston.

ENLIGHTENED INDUSTRY

It is interesting, and to many people reassuring, to find so prominent and powerful a leader as Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., chairman of the United States Steel board, saying this:

"No longer can industry plow a single furrow toward a strictly commercial objective. Instead it must manage its affairs with a due regard to the whole field of human relations. Industry must strive to adjust its operations to the highest purposes of life."

A few years ago such an utterance might have been regarded as an absurd outburst of "impractical idealism." Now many a hard-headed business man and keen observer of current life takes it seriously. "There are still some business leaders who do not realize that the hard-boiled stuff is outmoded," says the Cleveland Plain Dealer, "but fortunately the Stettinius idea is gaining ground. There is an increased number of big business leaders who know that some things are more important than profits."

We might put it just a little differently, like this: Big business leaders are coming to believe that unless modern business adjusts its operations with a view to the general welfare, there will be no profits.

FARES AND PROFITS

It is natural, perhaps, to think that more money can be made in transportation by jacking up rates, but it doesn't seem to work that way any more—if it ever did—on the railroads. So the eastern lines, which after a period of low passenger rates jerked them up again last summer, are getting ready for a new cut. At the higher rate they ran into a bad traffic slump.

The chief factor, no doubt, is the highway competition. The railroads used to have things pretty much their own way in both freight and passenger traffic. Now there is the competition of trucks, busses and private automobiles, ready to step in whenever railroad rates rise, to undercut them and take their business. The eastern lines, losing with a passenger coach fare of 2½ cents a mile, are now expected to return at their own request to 2 cents, with perhaps 1½ cents a mile for round trips, at least for the New York World's fair.

It need surprise no one if, after the fair, the eastern roads keep their fares down. Western lines seem to have got along all right with fares about the same as those now proposed again for the east.

RESPECT FOR LIFE

The gain in careful driving observed almost everywhere now is clearly not a casual thing, a transient whim or wave of emotion.

The movement keeps right on and grows stronger. The National Safety Council foresees a total saving of 8,500 lives in the United States this year, compared with last year. It will be the first decline in the traffic toll since 1932 and the greatest one in our history.

It is the result of several factors. Automobile clubs and other organizations have been urging safer driving for years, and now begin to see the fruits of their work. The police almost everywhere have done their best. Automobile manufacturers have made a great contribution, by providing modern cars with so many safety devices and making them easily controlled. Better roads, safer streets, and so on, have helped. But perhaps the biggest contribution to safety has been made by the drivers themselves. Generally speaking, they have grown more skillful and have learned to drive more carefully.

Perhaps it is correct to say that our American public, as a whole, has been dropping its old devil-may-care attitude because it has developed more respect for human life.

Columnist Ernie Pyle says poor people eat better in Argentina than anywhere else in the world. There's food for thought.

The salient fact about Europe is that people who used to be kicked around are now kicking other people around.

Men are said to be taking up "costume jewelry," and may yet be toting ten-dollar gold pieces on their watch chains again.

One thing the world needs just now is more Christmas trees.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act. TELL PHYSICIAN ALL SYMPTOMS

There was a time when our humorists liked to say, "The patient has had his tonsils and all his teeth removed but he still has his rheumatism." We do not hear this joke any more because practically every family has seen the very satisfactory results obtained by removal of teeth and tonsils in preventing further attacks of rheumatism although joints damaged by chronic rheumatism can hardly be expected to be free entirely of pain and stiffness.

Another joke on the medical profession was based on the "foolish" questions the physician asked the patient—his parents' and grandparents' age when they died and any illnesses from which they suffered, did he wake up in the night and not go to sleep again readily; how far could he walk without getting out of breath, and other questions that did not seem to be related to the pain or other symptom of which he complained. This questioning or getting the "history" of the patient before making the examination is not considered a joke any more because only the patient can accurately describe his pain or other symptoms. Thus a patient, much worried about his heart as it seemed to be beating too rapidly, visited a heart specialist. He expected the physician to immediately use the stethoscope, the sphygmomanometer (blood pressure machine), the electrocardiograph which records strength and regularity of the heart, and the fluoroscope which enables the physician to actually see the heart. Instead, the physician had him walk across the room and asked him how far he could walk at this rate without getting out of breath.

"So that's the distance that he could walk without getting out of breath easily, the heart specialist told him he had no heart disease, and to worry no further about it."

An examination with stethoscope, blood pressure machine, electrocardiograph and fluoroscope was made, however, and the heart was pronounced normal.

Thus the simple question, "How far can you walk without getting out of breath?" gave the heart specialist the information that it was not the heart that was causing the symptoms.

When you consult a physician do not hesitate to tell about your symptoms and answer his questions fully.

Why Worry About Your Heart?

Are you getting out of breath easily? Does your heart seem to skip beats or beat irregularly? Does your heart murmur? Is it enlarged? Send today for Dr. Barton's instructive booklet entitled "Why Worry About Your Heart?" (No. 102), which tells the story of your heart in a simple and satisfying manner. Send your request to The Bell Library, 247 West 43rd Street, New York, N. Y., enclosing ten cents to cover cost of service and handling, and mention the name of The Kingston Daily Freeman.

THE ARMY POST MURDERS

By Virginia Hanson

The Characters

Katherine Coranah, myself, visiting Elizabeth on a mid-western Army post.
 Elizabeth, Colonel Wright's daughter.
 Adam Drew, acting commanding officer.

Yesterday: We go to the hospital where Anne, delirious, has been calling for Barney.

Chapter 33

Nothing Gained

ANNE? I gazed in staggered disbelief at the little figure in rusty black. Surely Adam didn't suspect her!

And then things—little things—I had noticed and half forgotten began to crowd in on me. My mind cast back, away back, to my lunch with Elizabeth. The car—the baby that died—"I'm afraid Anne minds." Little bits began to fit together. Phel Curtis and the baby who died. The typewriter—Annie would have access to that; she came and went as she wished at the Carew's. And the car—she had been driving Elizabeth to let her drive it. Anne had no alibi. But the motive? Why should she shoot Anne and stab the other girl? What explanation was there other than insanity?

She seemed unaware of me—fierce eyed, suspicious, her sharp glance darting from face to face, a red spot in either cheek, her hat tipping crazily.

I moved toward her, a little frightened, but oppressed by my responsibility. Adam was afraid of something happening to Anne, yet he had made no move to send these people home.

A baited trap. That was it. Baited with the body of a girl whose link to life was a frail thread, to be easily snapped. He was staking her safety against his own vigilance to gain the murderer's self-betrayal.

I drew a deep breath. I had failed once this night in a task set me. I would not fail again.

Doc Moore stood in the doorway. "She's awake," he said in a low voice to Adam. But everyone was suddenly so still that the words seemed to fill the room.

Annie murmured, "I'm going too," to no one in particular, and darted out into the hall after Adam and Barney. I followed her.

The officers' ward was on the ground floor, at the end of the corridor. It was not a large room, but so dimly lighted that the corners were in shadow. I could see faintly, on the far side of the room, the bed where they had put Mrs. Carew, her figure quiet under the covers and her husband sitting beside her with his head in his hands.

Then my eyes were drawn back to the foreground, to the shaded lamp on the bedside table, to the bed where Anne was lying. Surrounded by the oxygen tent, it resembled an old fashioned perambulator, or a buggy with the storm curtains attached. The square hood that enclosed her head, shoulders and arms was made of some light, silky substance, inset with four windows of what looked like isinglass, through which we could see quite clearly the still, dark head against the pillow, eyes closed. Her slight body scarcely ridged the smoothness of the silk sheet that lay along the bed—a continuation of the oxygen tent.

She was so utterly motionless that for a terrified moment I could not believe that she was alive.

"Light!"

DOC MOORE said, "Quiet, please," and stood aside to let Barney pass.

On the far side of the bed a nurse bent, peered in, straightened, shook her head.

"Sorry, Doctor. An instant ago she was awake, asking for him. But she's gone off again." Adam's voice murmured.

"A chair," helplessly, he was swaying a little. Adam found one, pushed him into it.

Doc Moore felt his pulse, murmured, "Just sit still," soothingly. Quiet descended. Annie and I filled the doorway. Behind me someone whispered.

"So that's an oxygen tent," Lou Orpington.

"Wonderful thing, science," Mrs. Flower.

The nurse pushed them. I looked over my shoulder. They were all there.

For a moment I wondered why we were not being chased away. Then I remembered the trap and shivered uncontrollably.

The light blinked out in the hall behind us and gray dawn filtered through. The windows were pale with morning. The long night was past.

The lamp on the bedside table continued to burn in the shadow cast by the screen behind the bed. Our eyes were lowered on the little cots under the yellow light, on the table with its clean white towel, with its bottles and glass; on the tent inside which a feeble life was burning; on Barney, bent like the older man in the far corner, head between his hands; on Adam and Doc Moore standing motionless and straight at the foot of the bed; on the nurse beyond it, watchful eyes on that small, quiet form.

She looked up at last, murmured, her lips barely moving, "She's coming around."

Barney lurched to his feet, caught at the table for support, and the yellow light went out.

Someone squealed faintly. Barney said quickly, "It's all right—I must have yanked out the plug. I'll get it."

In the half-light of early dawn shapes were beginning to form. Barney was on his knees, fumbling behind the table. Then a small dark figure cut across my field of vision, making for the bed.

Annie was no longer beside me.

I heard a grunt as I caromed into someone, then I was behind that small black figure, my arms around her, pinioning hers to her sides with all the strength I had.

She fought. For a woman of her age and slight build she was a wildcat.

"No you can't! No you don't!" she kept gasping.

I heard a match scratch and called, "Light! Quickly!" Someone plunged past me, half fell over Barney's kneeling form. "Switch—by the door!" Adam called breathlessly. "Sorry, Barney, did I step on your hand?"

"You!"

SOMEONE has found the switch. Overhead lights flooded the room and it seemed full of people. Suddenly Annie twisted around in my arms, looked at me, surprise mingled with malign fury on her flushed face.

"You!" she said furiously. "Why, you black-hearted—"

"I think—it was the medicine. Or the glass of water," I panted.

"I think it was," cried Annie fiercely, twitching herself free of my relaxed grip and glaring at us all. "But she never got to the bottles, and I held me hand over the glass no matter how hard she struggled!"

Trap or no trap, Adam or no Adam, Doc Moore's professional ire was roused.

"Do you want to kill the girl?" he demanded wrathfully.

There was not a one among us who did not look abashed.

Outside in the car, Adam patted my shoulder.

"Good girl," he said quietly.

"But it was so inconclusive," I said, discouraged. "There's nothing to prove that I wasn't the one who was trying to get at Anne or to drop something in her drinking glass."

"As a matter of fact, I doubt if they'll find anything in the drinking-water."

Cars were turning, moving uncertainly about, dark shapes in the dim light. The sky was overcast. There was no color to herald the invisible sun.

"What next?" I asked as we drove off slowly.

Charlie's car was ahead, traveling as purposelessly as ours.

"I don't know," Adam was beginning when we both heard it—a faint, steady drone like a giant, angry fly, that grew and swelled and zoomed above us.

Adam stuck his head out of the car window, craning his long neck. "The Old Man!" he cried. "Must have taken off in the dark."

And in place of the despondency that I had expected to see on his face, when he pulled in his head and stepped on the gas, he was visibly excited—almost, I thought, jubilant.

The others had seen it too—that circling dark shape against the steel-gray sky. Charlie's car picked up speed. Behind us followed the other two.

Adam drew up beside Charlie behind a long low shed, and almost at once Elizabeth pulled into line, Annie and Lou Orpington still with her. The Flowers in their car, brought up the rear.

I was even surprised, as we tumbled out and stood watching the low-circling plane, to see Mary and Tubby Shaw come around the corner on two wheels. By now I was used to their united front, their herding instinct, the way they clung together, jealous of being left out—a large family in which each member wanted to be the version of any dispute would be properly presented to the head of the clan.

I stood alone, feeling rather forlorn, watching Adam and Barney and Charlie stroll out across the level field—three tall, fair men. Adam, bareheaded, still in his white dress uniform that was beginning to look a little mussed, was even at this distance a more distinct, more personalized individual.

I saw him stoop and pick something up from the turf at his feet, then the big black shadow swooped down out of the sky and scattered them.

For a fleeting instant Adam turned about, his eyes, and then he was exultant in the flashed message. I ran to him and slipped my arm through his, feeling suddenly frightened and terribly alone.

The First Rider

THE little gnome like man, Willy Nilly, had handed his animal friends the slips of papers to see which would be the first one to ride with him to the home of Santa Claus, at the North Pole.

The one drawn the shortest piece of paper was to be the first rider and the one who drew it was Rip, the dog.

"Bow-wow-wow," barked Rip. "I'll certainly be glad to see Santa's dog, Boy of the North, or Great Boy, as Santa also calls him."

Willy Nilly wrapped himself up in his warmest things and Rip was as bundled as ever a dog could be with a sweater and a little woolen hood on his head. He did indeed look a funny sight, but no one minded—least of all Rip himself. And no one made fun of his appearance. It was necessary to be warm on such a cold trip.

They got into the sleigh which was ready for them and at once the reindeer leaped off. They knew the way, for Santa had given Willy Nilly his old-time reindeer. The ones he had recently added to his herd he had kept for himself so he could show them the direction.

"I'm riding in the Reindeer Express," shouted Rip to Willy Nilly, and his voice sounded clear and far-reaching in the cold air, and the deserted country, over which they hurried.

"I wonder how long it will take us to get there," he barked, but he did not wonder for long. In a very short time, owing to the amazing speed of the reindeer, they had gone over the tops of houses, forests, snowy meadows and had reached Santa's workshop.

WASHINGTON—It is getting so a man can hardly blow away the smoke from a cigarette without finding himself engaged in (or affecting) interstate commerce.

So broad is the scope of the Supreme Court decision in the case of Consolidated Edison company of New York against the national labor relations board that a whole new scanning of the horizon of federal regulation seems likely.

Consolidated Edison is a tremendous power company in point of the number of kilowatts of energy it shoots along its network of wires and cables. Nevertheless, it operates in New York State alone (but not quite) to the exclusion of all other territory.

It sells power to city docks, to railroads and to enterprises which operate the tunnels operating under the Hudson, connecting New Jersey with New York. At no point does it transmit power under its own control outside of New York State. It sells a very small portion to companies which in turn use it in interstate commerce.

the labor board in its contention that a California fruit company which shipped 33 per cent of its fruit in interstate commerce was directly subject to the labor act. Now it reaches out to extend the act to a company which of itself does not engage in interstate commerce, but simply sells its product to those who do.

In explaining its case, the court pointed out that a labor strike would leave the docks without lights, thus "affecting" not only interstate commerce, but foreign commerce as well.

Moreover, it pointed out that a radio station uses the power, and in event of a shutdown the radio broadcast across state lines also would be affected.

Could Apply To Coal

TWO years ago the court upset the Guffey coal production control act by asserting that the industry was local, not national, in character. What now is to offset an argument that coal mining is in interstate commerce because coal is sold to companies which engage in interstate commerce?

That is one of the possibilities. The court has veered about within in two years to a course that vastly broadened federal control over such matters as labor and industrial conditions. In the Consolidated Edison decision, a member of the court for the first time gave some recognition of the change. In his dissent, Justice Butler rather forcibly referred to "the period when the court was deciding another way, and I was one of the majority instead of the present self minority constituted by himself and Justice McReynolds."

NEW YORK—If you like your newsreels sprinkled with plenty of football the tiny newsreel theater in Grand Central Terminal is the place for you.

For 25 cents you get a solid hour of entertainment with splendid action shots of most of the big games. Not just a flash, but frequently entire sequences of plays.

On a recent afternoon I found an amazing story in celluloid of the great T.C.U. team in action. This picture revealed more than anything how they score all those touchdowns. It's that protection. Their passers have time to shave before an opposing lineman can get within arm's length of them.

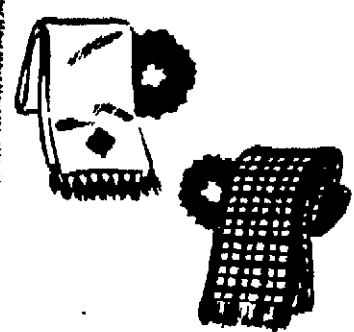

THE Music Hall Rockettes are wonderful—this is everyone knows—but I never thought scientists would get around to naming shells for them. Thirty-nine names were submitted to Dr. Walter H. Smith, shell expert and owner of a far-flung exhibit of these curious bits of organism taken from the seas in every part of the world.

The real name for these shells is "margaritifera." This is the name scientists know them by. But now they belong to the Rockettes, that famous line of dancers who have become known, and justly, as the most famous dancing girls in the world.

Mrs. Holcomb Is Re-elected Head of Hospital Auxiliary

Mrs. Frederic Holcomb was re-elected president of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital at its recent annual meeting.

The 19 vice presidents named were Mrs. Herbert I. Bloom, Mrs. Reynolds Carr, Mrs. Mark O'Meara, Mrs. Frederick Warren, Mrs. J. M. Frankel of Saugerties, Mrs. Mable Robeson, Woodstock, Dr. Alice Divine, Ellenville; Mrs. Theodore Rhodes, Milton, Mrs. A. S. Ferguson, Marlborough; and Mrs. A. J. Ford, Kerhonkson.

Mrs. Mortimer Downer was elected secretary and Mrs. A. D. Rose, treasurer.

The following is the yearly report made at the meeting: "On December 23, 1937, the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital Auxiliary was organized. During the last seven years we have tried to carry out plans and ideals of the first meeting held at the court house. As we review the minutes of the meetings of these years and think of the work we have done, it should be very gratifying to all members to feel they are part of this welfare work."

"I want to thank all who have helped on the different committees during the past year, the book, visiting, entertainment and publicity committees. The committees take a lot of time, and you all have done your work in a cheerful manner, which is most helpful."

"May I offer my thanks and appreciation for the way in which Miss O'Sullivan has carried on the occupational therapy work during the last year. The sale of articles for the year, including our outside sales, amounted to $348.87. I also wish to thank Mr. Gross, of the Governor Clinton Hotel, for making our sale possible at the hotel. This money, as you know, is expended for the materials used by the patients and for welfare work in the hospital. I feel it is very remarkable to think we have been able to carry on this important part of our welfare work without asking for funds from the hospital authorities."

"Our dues and sales have met our needs, and this past year has been an extremely active one, as the hospital has been crowded practically all of the time."

"The patients' work was exhibited at the Ulster County Fair, and one yellow ribbon, three blue ribbons and three red ribbons were won. I think that alone speaks for Miss O'Sullivan's efficient training and supervision of the patients' activities."

"We heartily thank the people who have come to the hospital to entertain the patients. Those who have given of their time for this bit of cheer during the past year are Pardee and Allen, the Business and Professional girls of the Y. W. C. A., the Board of the Y. W. C. A., the choir and young people of the Church of the Redeemer, Roger Baer and Robert Steuding, Miss Casbin's dancing class, Mr. Sam Souder, and the orchestra from the Clinton Ford pavilion. To these and all who help by visiting our patients, we say 'many thanks.' We express our appreciation to the newspapers of Ulster county for the generous amount of space given us during the year."

"We have had several 'grab-bags' on visiting days throughout the year. The patients enjoy this diversion and seem to get a great deal of pleasure out of 'grab-bag' day."

"I want to thank Mr. Burgevin for the huge quantities of flowers sent to us when they are ordered for the patients. Mr. Burgevin has always been willing to help us, and we deeply appreciate his kindness."

"Last year the appeal to the public for funds for Christmas at the hospital was made and the response was, as in the past, very generous. The sum of $120 was donated; also many gifts, and everyone received presents and a small amount of money. Several choirs of the city sang carols during the holiday season, and the patients also had services by the clergy."

"The hospital was decorated by means of gifts of Christmas trees donated by Mr. Garbarino. The Central Hudson very kindly sent their employees to place the lights, which were given by Mr. Watrous, on the trees."

"Our memberships for the year total 192. This number, of course, is very small for an institution that serves 80,000 people in the county of Ulster. I extend an invitation to anyone who is at all interested in our work to join our organization and in any way help to bring cheer to the patients who are confined in the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital."

"It is very evident that the auxiliary has played a very pleasant part in the daily life of the hospital. Hundreds of patients have been benefited in many ways by the instruction in various handicrafts which have been taught by our therapist. Let us hope that more and more people will realize this fact and assist in our future activities by their actual participation in the Auxiliary or by their financial support."

"Respectfully submitted,
"EMMA W. HOLCOMB,
"President."

Since its completion six years ago the Dnepropetrovsk hydroelectric plant, largest in the Soviet Union, has produced 95,000,000 kilowatt-hours of power.

London's Barmaids Scoff at 'Pub' Ban

London, Dec. 12 (AP).—London's prettiest barmaids scornfully protested today against a suggested ban on the mistletoe in "pubs" during the Christmas season.

A high union official started it by telling members of the saloon section of the Transport and General Workers' Union that "many a good, honest woman behind a bar is dragged forward to be kissed under the mistletoe by some stupid, drunken man."

A barmaid of "Ye Black Friar Pub" led the girls in the retort "What's wrong with it? Christmas is supposed to be a time of good will isn't it?"

Home Service Grow Flowering Plants For Christmas Cheer

Marica Blooms for Months
Lovely Marica with its iris-like flowers! There's sifter thrill in watching it blossom.

One day, a bud appears near the tip of what you supposed was an ordinary leaf. Observe closely, for in less than an hour its fragile petals of white splashed with violet burst into glorious bloom.

The Marica flowers joyously all winter and right into spring, especially if you water the plant frequently—as often as twice a day in dry rooms. But Marica's a hardy plant and will stand extremes of temperature.

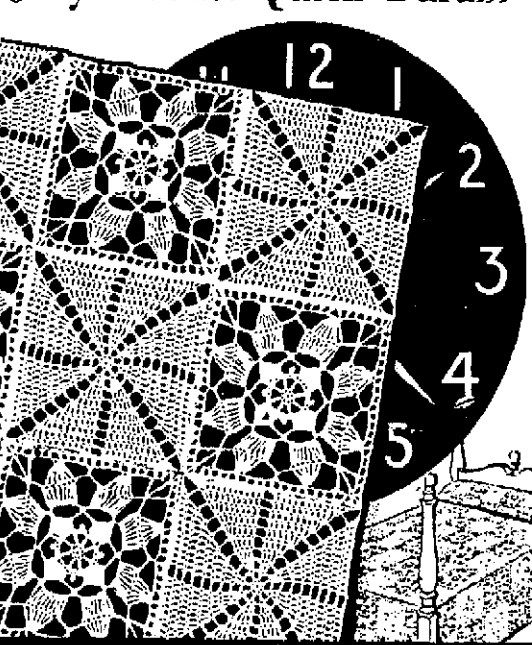

To grow new plants from your Marica, pot the little plantlets which appear near the tips of leaves after flowers die. Put an inch of drainage material in the bottom of each pot, add good garden soil.

Delightful, too, at this Christmas season are the handsome red-blossomed poinsettia and the cineraria with its pink and purple flowers. Our 32-page booklet tells how to make these and many other favorites thrive indoors. Feathery ferns, bulbs for soil or water, flowering and foliage plants. Vines for bracket pots. Window boxes. How to avoid plant pests.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of MAKING PLANTS AND FLOWERS GROW INDOORS to The Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Smith Ave., New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and the NAME of booklet.

When You Have Cold Troubles Do What 3 out of 5 Mothers Do

Here are 4 Proved Ways They Use to Relieve Discomforts of Colds

1 Head-Cold Sniffles and Misery. Melt a spoonful of Vicks VapoRub in a bowl of boiling water, then inhale the steaming vapors. These medicated vapors loosen phlegm, clear air-passages, make breathing easier. Then, at bedtime, massage throat and chest with VapoRub; leave bed-covering loose around neck so the medicated vapors, released by body heat, can be inhaled freely during the night. VapoRub's direct action brings comfort—relieves local congestion—helps you relax into restful sleep. Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over.

2 Coughing or Sore Throat due to the cold. Use steam treatment outlined above. Also put a small lump of VapoRub on the tongue. It melts, trickles slowly down—bathes the throat with soothing medication which brings comforting relief to the irritated membranes and checks tendency to cough.

3 Night Coughs due to colds—especially of children—can often be prevented by massaging VapoRub on throat and chest at bedtime.

4 Chest Colds. Thoroughly massage VapoRub on throat, chest and back. Then spread a thick layer on the chest and cover with a warm cloth. VapoRub goes right to work—two ways at once: (1) Direct through the skin like a poultice; (2) Direct on the irritated air-passages as its medicated vapors are inhaled with every breath. This direct double action loosens phlegm—eases coughing—clears the air-passages—eases muscular soreness or tightness—relieves local congestion.

Children's Colds are always a problem to mothers. Neglect is dangerous, because it often paves the way for more serious trouble. But constant internal dosing is risky, too. It often upsets a delicate little stomach, lowers resistance just when it is most needed to overcome the cold and ward off complications. It is for these reasons that most mothers depend on VapoRub to relieve the misery of their children's colds. With VapoRub there's no needless dosing, no risk of stomach upsets. It can be used freely, as often as needed, on even the youngest child.

Many Other Ways in which VapoRub can help you are described in the medically-approved directions folder that comes in each VapoRub package.

Gaston B. Means Dies in Missouri

Springfield, Mo., Dec. 12 (AP)—Gaston B. Means, 58, oft-time convict widely known for his $104,000 Lindbergh baby ransom hoax, died early today in the United States medical center here.

Undisclosed to the end was his secret of what became of the large sum Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean of Washington, D. C., gave him on his promise that he could return the kidnapped son of Col. Charles Lindbergh alive.

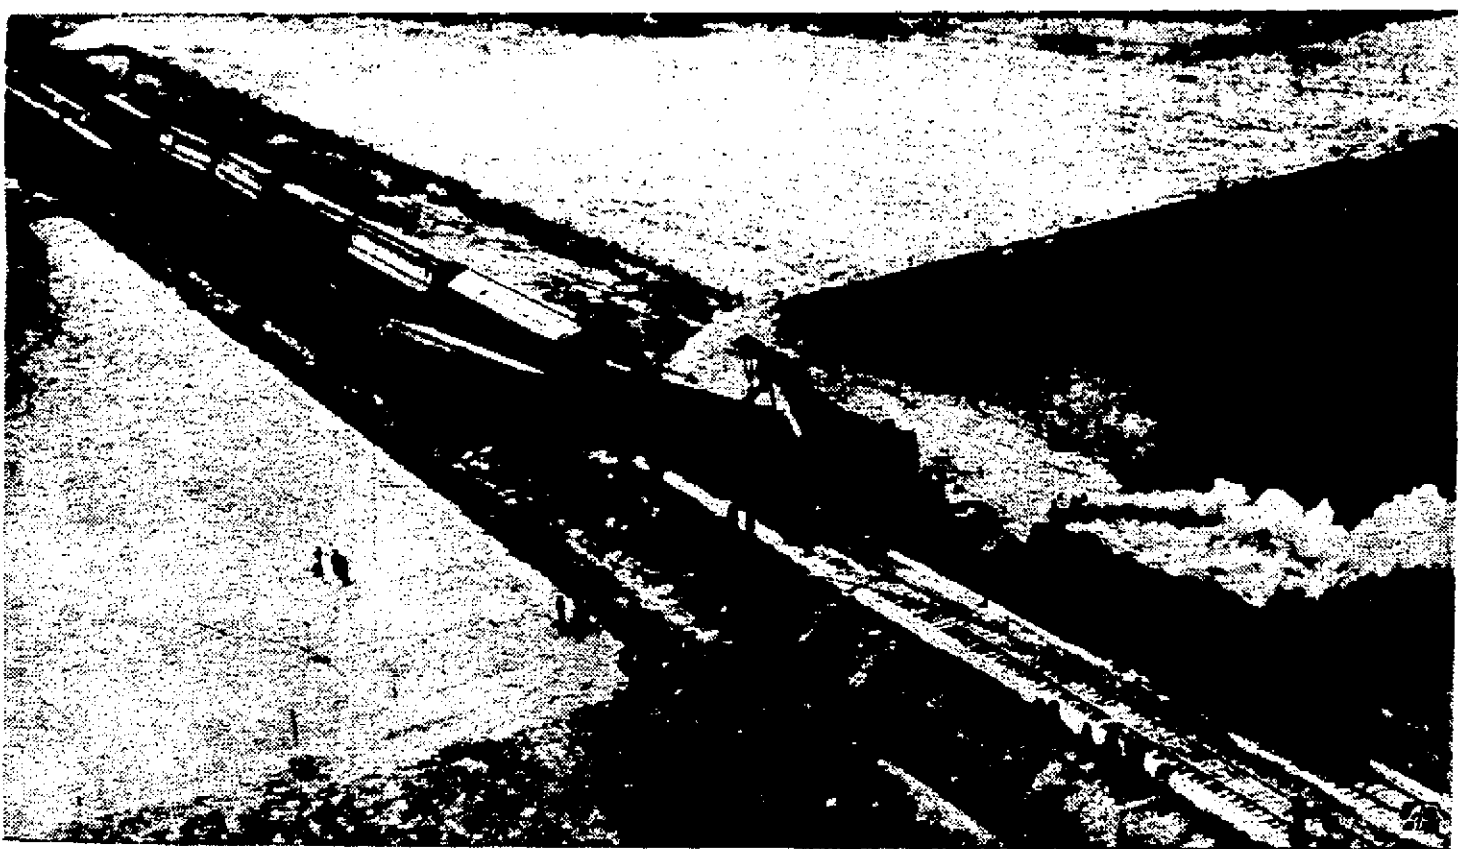

The big time swindler offered no death-bed statement. He had met earlier attempts of G-men to obtain here the inside story of the case with stony silence.

Means' death had been expected since Thursday when he suffered a heart attack following an operation for removal of his gall bladder.

At his bedside when he died was his wife, Mrs. Julie Means of Washington, D. C. Other survivors include a son, Billy, three brothers, Afton and Brandon W. Means of Concord, N. C., and Frank Means of Providence, R. I.; and three sisters, Mrs. J. F. Goodman and the Misses Mary Belle and Kate Means, all of Concord.

Dr. M. R. King, warden, said the body would be sent to Concord.

FEW HURT AS EIGHT CARS LEAVE RAILS

Eight cars (count 'em) of the east-bound Fort Pitt limited left the rails near Deane, O., but only two women were hurt seriously enough to require hospital treatment. Others suffered minor cuts and bruises which were treated at the scene. Two engines which drew the train remained on the track. Some of the cars sank almost five feet in mud and passengers were helped out through windows.

The Christmas Cheer Committee will meet Tuesday afternoon at the city hall to further develop plans for making Christmas a success in Kingston. Over 1,500 children will not be forgotten by the genial saint on that day through the efforts of the committee.

Toys that have been discarded are now being collected and renovated at Santa Claus's workshops. The police are making a house to house canvass in the downtown section below the West Shore railroad tracks, while up town the work is being done by the firemen.

Germany Works Out New Formula for Releasing Jews

Berlin, Dec. 12 (AP)—A high German source disclosed today that Germany was working out what may be a new Nazi formula for the emigration of Jews.

The problem probably will be solved, he said, by allowing one wealthy and four impoverished Jews to leave the country as enough German exports are sold abroad to yield foreign exchange to meet the costs of their emigration.

The disclosure coincided with intimation of a slight let-up shortly in the severity of Nazi anti-semitic measures in return for which, it was indicated, Germany expects foreign Jews to provide foreign exchange.

"The government, together with foreign Jewish associations, is working out a plan of coupling emigration with exports," this source said.

He told it in connection with a DNB, official German news agency announcement, which deals with aid that foreign Jews and wealthy German Jews can contribute to ridding Germany of her entire Jewish population.

"In pursuance of this plan," he said, "every emigrating wealthy Jew should agree to take four penniless Jews with him."

"Obviously we cannot give him foreign exchange to finance such an operation."

"He should find some wealthy Jew abroad to lend him such sums as may be necessary for enabling his four co-religionists to start life modestly anew in some other country."

"We are willing to reimburse this foreign Jew but obviously can do it only by furnishing made-in-Germany goods."

"The emigrating Jew thus has it in his own hand to hasten the day of his departure from Germany; if he can provide additional markets for German-made products."

This source was confident that such a method promised success. It was obvious from his manner that the DNB communication was calculated to ease foreign tension over Germany's anti-semitic drive, thus paving the way for foreign Jewish aid for German Jewish emigrants.

The announcement said that restrictions against Jews entering hotels, restaurants or stores owned by non-Jews would be relaxed after January 1.

Anesthetic Stops Pain Three Weeks

New York, Dec. 12 (AP)—A local anesthetic, one "shot" of which stops pain for two or three weeks, has been developed at the College of Physicians and Surgeons.

While the wounds of operations are healing, most of the patients have been able to walk around without pain. They have not had to stay in hospitals, and economic losses have been further reduced by returning them to work earlier.

Most of the women who had been doing housework continued part of their duties. Men and women in regular employment have resumed work within a week.

These results, verified in 194 rectal operations on 181 persons, are described in the Journal of Surgery, Gynecology and Obstetrics by C. V. Burt, M. D., fellow of the American College of Surgeons, and J. Gordon Rennie, M. D., of Richmond, Va.

The anesthetic is neothelol. It is a mixture of procaine, two other chemicals, and refined French almond oil. The oil is the secret of the long insensibility to pain. It holds and releases the anesthetic gradually into the tissues.

Stone Ridge Library Group Holds Quarterly Meeting

A quarterly meeting of the trustees of the Stone Ridge library was held on Thursday, December 8, in the library building. Eight members were present and the president, Miss Katharine Hasbrouck, presided. Dr. James Cantine gave the annual secretary's and treasurer's reports. Dr. Cantine has just returned from an extensive trip through the middle west in connection with the 50th anniversary of his connection with the Arabian missions. He and Dr. Ziemer have just published a book, "Golden Milestone," which is an account of their work together in Arabia. He presented a volume to the library.

The librarian reported the addition of 175 new books during the year, both by gift and purchase.

Next year is the 30th anniversary of the founding of the library and plans were discussed for an appropriate celebration. Mrs. Kenneth Davenport was appointed chairman of a committee to arrange for the same sometime next June.

Mild Gasoline War Continues in City

What may be termed a mild gasoline war apparently has hit town. For some time most gasoline stations have been selling gas to local customers for two cents off posted price or six gallons for a dollar.

A few days ago some stations posted 15½ cent gas and today the majority of stations are selling seven gallons for $1.10. This is for "regular" gas.

Mrs. H. Simpson To File Claim

Foreman Thomas Curtin, of the WPA and the blasting was in charge of John Gregory, who has been working in the city in that capacity for three years.

Blast Charge Covered

The officials report that the charge of dynamite was covered with logs chained together, as were all other blasts set off on the project.

The retaining wall is being constructed as part of a sidewalk project and is along the property of Peter Manion, whose house is on an elevation on the corner of Lincoln street and Clifton avenue, opposite the Simpson house.

Repairs Underway

City employees were on the Simpson property today making repairs. Mrs. Simpson, who said Attorney Chris J. Managan would represent her, said she would file a claim for damages.

The claim, it is understood, will be filed against the city, since the federal government only holds itself liable on WPA projects for personal injuries and death, and has not accepted responsibility for property damages previously.

Pickets Cluster Around Markets

New York, Dec. 12 (AP)—Picket lines were thrown around markets where pecking companies handle the bulk of New York city's meat and poultry; and deliveries, in some instances, moved under police guard today in a strike called by the United Meat Workers (CIO).

Meyer Stern, representative of the packers organizing committee (CIO) said the strike was 95 per cent effective. Spokesmen for the packers said strikers' jobs had been taken by salesmen and other employees. Some reported no delay in shipments while others said they were having difficulty moving supplies.

French Somaliland lies between Eritrea (Italian), Abyssinia and Italian Somaliland and is separated by the Straits of Bab-el-Mandeb from Aden (British).

Looks Good for Colonials—
Local Belters Leave
By Joe Kelly

Too bad the Clermonts had to drop that one to the Layman-Berkwits boys Saturday... But the first place tie in the Hudson Valley League should make an interesting cage fight... That's what keeps the game alive... Something definite should be announced this week on running those City League game as preliminaries to the American pro contests at the auditorium... This week's pro game will be Thursday instead of Wednesday... The house should be packed with the Phillies furnishing the opposition to the Colonials... Right now the Hebrews are in first place, and Kingston second... Imagine the Jersey Reds dropping two over the week-end, Phil Rabin and all!... Looks good for Barney Sedran's outfit.

Sam Riber, fight announcer, is still confined to his bed by illness. Phil Kelly's broken left leg is healing, but he won't be able to reach the ringside to second his fighters for at least two weeks... Kid Chappie put his three Diamond Belt champs on the train at Rhinecliff Sunday morning, bound for the tournament matches at Boston tonight... They are Sergeant Perry, lightweight, Monk Armstrong, middleweight, and Charlie Ralpins, featherweight... They'll be handled in Beantown by Mike Vigliani, Albany Times Union representative, and Jimmy Pope, the coach who developed the Perfectis, Matt, now up and coming, and Dom, Diamond Belt bantam welterholder... MORAL: Worry Brings Bowl Bids

Zeke Bonura Is With Giants Now

New York, Dec. 12 (AP)—Baseball's big bartering corps, all present or accounted for a day ahead of the annual major league meetings, placed Zeke Bonura's name on a "sold" tag today and started shuffling for other deals.

The Washington Senators sent the slugging first sacker to the New York Giants yesterday for an estimated $20,000 and two minor league players—first baseman Jim Carlin of Richmond and pitcher Tom Baker of Jersey City.

Arrangements for the trade were made during the major league meeting at New Orleans last week, but were held up until after other American League clubs valued on Bonura.

Tony Lazzeri announced Saturday he had accepted terms to play second base for the Brooklyn Dodgers. Lazzeri, who obtained a new contract with the Chicago Cubs a few days ago, did not reveal the financial arrangements.

Don Budge Is No. 1 Athlete

New York, Dec. 12 (AP)—For the second year in succession, Don Budge is ranked as the nation's No. 1 athlete.

The lanky California red-head, who negotiated an unprecedented tennis sweep in winning the Australian, French, British and American titles in one year before electing to cast his lot with the professionals, was named as the No. 1 athlete for 1933 by 26 of the 63 sports experts who participated in the Associated Press' annual poll.

In sharp contrast, however, to his run-away triumph in last year's battle of ballots, Budge was hard-pressed this time by Henry Armstrong, great negro fighter, who set up a new all-time boxing record by holding the featherweight, lightweight and welterweight championships at the same time.

Interfraternal Games Tonight

The Interfraternal Tournament League will meet tonight at Mechanics' Hall on Henry street. Darts and ping-pong are the games scheduled.

The games this evening will start promptly at 8:30 o'clock and will be followed by refreshments.

The standing of the clubs shows the Knights of Columbus leads the league in the pocket billiards division. In the shuffleboard division the Knights closed a wide gap when they spurted from last place to a first place tie with the Elks.

Chicago, Dec. 12 (AP)—If you want to be a big-time hockey star, take a tip from Bill Stewart, manager of the champion Chicago Blackhawks and "don't be a 'Fancy Dan' or referee fooler—just learn to skate and score."

Stewart, referee-in-chief of the National League before coming to the Hawks, says "the 'Fancy Dans' who swish the puck in dainty maneuvers to save the energy involved in going into enemy territory are on the way out."

Cairo Big Five Invades Court Of White Eagles on Tuesday

Tuesday night it will be the Cairo Big Five at White Eagle Hall in the regular weekly feature with Frank Wojciechowski's Polish cagers, who have won four games out of six.

Teams defeated by the Eagles are the Hudson Polans, St. Joseph's of Poughkeepsie, Stone Ridge and Rosendale at Rosendale. Rosendale came back to defeat the Polish boys at home by four points. The other games dropped by the Wojciechowski quintet was to the Crusaders, one of the stellar basketball brigades of Poughkeepsie.

"My boys are ready," said the manager of the White Eagles today. "They went through fast workouts Friday night and Sunday afternoon, and showed well in the scrimmages with a pick-up team."

Cairo, with a defeat over the Catskill Howiters, is rated as one of the best teams in the mountain district, and should give the Eagles a run for the laurels, well worth seeing.

In the lineup of the White Eagles will be the Tatarzewski brothers, Frankie and Walter, Leo Neboltz, Kayo Janaisewicz, Jeff Nelepa, Vinnie Lukaszewski, and Pauline Argulewicz, former Kingston High School varsity star.

Starting time of the game is 8 o'clock. At 7:30 the Blackbirds will play the Elks. Dancing will be held with music by the Kingston Swinger Five.
